

Alab net, made up of 400 members, 12,000 supporters and 80 laboratories, spreading creative crafts as economic and cultural innovation and creating a widespread microeconomics network for urban renovation, share methodologies linked to design, art and artisanship as the growth of a new sustainable awareness, so far discussed but never applied in terms of everyday life.

We promote craftsmanship as a way to develop innovation, economy and culture, through our presence in the streets and the schools, by educating a younger public and inspiring people who seek to do something practical for a living.

Alab is made of artisans, artists, amateurs, architects, designers, photographers, humanists, activists, inventors, researchers, crazy people!

Our product is not mass-produced. It's not industrial, it's unique and distinguished, like the artisan who produced it.

It originates from our wit, passion and hardworking hands.

The labs of ALAB Network promote art and handicraft with the purpose of regenerating the Historical Town Center of Palermo and of all the cities where we are.
